MONDAY OPENING SESSION
MICHAEL DISPEZIO

Michael A. DiSpezio is one of the most recognized, entertaining and sought-after presenters at educator conferences throughout the world. In addition to offering his unique style of dynamic, theatrical, and often interactive presentations, he is a prolific author having written dozens of trade books and coauthored over sixty science textbooks published by Houghton Mifflin Harcourt.

As all agree, his enthusiastic, high-energy style is an infectious vehicle for his delivery of a wide range of topics in education. He has trained Arab educators in the Middle East as part of the Peace Accord, and developed materials for the Discovery Channel, Disney, PBS, Children's Television Workshop, MTV, The Weather Channel, Discover magazine and "Scientific American Frontiers". He's also hosted over two dozen broadcasts on the National Geographic Channel.

For decades, Michael has been a STEM and educational advisor to school systems throughout the nation. These days, his interests go beyond classroom walls into the synthetic world, where he is at the forefront of developing Virtual Reality field trips, tennis, and good eats.

Conference Information

2019 Washington ACTE Summer Professional Development Conference Objectives

The purpose of the 2019 Washington ACTE Summer Professional Development Conference is to coordinate and conduct sustainable, intensive, professional development opportunities that meet the needs of all educators; particularly Career and Technical Education (CTE) educators including K12 and community and technical college instructors, counselors, administrators, school board directors, and coordinators.

The specific objectives of the 2019 Washington ACTE Summer Professional Development Conference seek to provide professional opportunities to integrate coherent and rigorous content in the Career and Technical Education (CTE) curricula so students master their academic skills while developing the specific technical skills needed by:

- Reinforcing Career and Technical Education (CTE) educator pedagogy and andragogy of student engagement, administrative policies and procedures, including the legal responsibilities and ethical standards supporting quality educator standards (TPEP);
- Identifying and promoting effective Career and Technical Education (CTE) curricula focused on students mastering the technical skills required in high demand occupations that connect and support student understanding and application of the arts, sciences, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) concepts for student career success;
- Discovering what resources may be available to implement effective career-connected learning opportunities leading up to and within specific individual CTE programs in the K12 and community and technical colleges system;
- Sharing best practices for effective business and industry partnerships, and to improve parental and community involvement; and,
- Identifying and supporting best practices and programs to recruit and retain quality CTE instructors pre- and post-service.
