Thank you so much for your generous donation!

Voting is underway, so this is crunch time for our campaign. With your support, we are working to fully fund our TV ads and mail through Election Day.

Here's what we're up against – anti-choice Republican Dave Reichert is literally willing to say anything to get elected. The good news is that local newspapers are paying attention.

As the Seattle Times editorial board pointed out, Reichert says one thing behind closed doors, and offers "conflicting views" to the local media and to the public. The Tri-City Herald editorial board wrote that "it's enough to make one's head spin."

That's why your support matters. We must get the message out about the clear contrast in this race.

With your help, we are building the largest grassroots campaign in state history. As the only candidate who does not accept donations from large corporations and corporate PACs, I rely on the over 100,000 individual donations we've received so far.

Thanks for being a part of it.

BF Thx!

P.S. My teenage twins, Katie and Jack, set up an Instagram account for our cat. @peter.for.first.cat is live and you can follow along as Peter shares his feline perspective on me and the campaign.

Dear Friends,

Thank you very much for the generous donation from the Washington Organization of Vocational Educators — I truly appreciate your help and support!

Thanks as well for all
you do to connect young people to great and fulfilling careers — I truly appreciate it!
